

APPENDIX A

Table of all 109 Pieces

---

In the table below, all 109 pieces in Baishidaoren Gequ are listed. Column Index contains the index with respect to the order as given in (Y. Yang, 2019, pp. 84-86, 91-92). Column Romanization indicates the romanization of the piece's name in the column Name. Column Incipit lists the first two characters of the lyrics for facilitated identification of different ci following the same cipai. Column Mode (Original) contains the mode as indicated in the piece itself (or, if the piece has musical notation but no mode information, N/A). Column Mode (Yanyue) contains the name of the mode as introduced in Section 3.2.

The 14 songs in the first section Shengsong Naogeguchuiqu Shisishou are preceded by a preface, and the titles having three characters each coincide with the first three characters of the respective songs.

In the second section Qinqu Yishou, there is a short text Ceshangdiao 側商調 describing the mode of the same name, and a table named Diaoxianfa 調弦法 containing information about tuning the guqin strings accordingly. After this comes the guqin piece Guyuan.

For the 10 pieces in lülüpu notation in the third section Yuejiuge Shishou 越九歌十首), the mode in column Mode (Yanyue) was determined by the mode information as contained in the title or indicated separately, except for the first piece Dishun Chudiao 帝舜楚調, where the mode was determined manually using the tone inventory and the final degree. In addition, this section contains a preface, a table titled Gujin Pufa 古今譜法 indicating the relationship between lülüpu and gongchepu, and an explanation of the zhezi symbol appearing in some of the ten pieces titled Zhezi Fa 折字法.

In the fifth section Man are the only pieces in Baishidaoren Gequ that contain mode information while not having musical notation, namely Qitianle 齊天樂, Faquxianxianyin 法曲獻仙吟, and Pipaxian 琵琶仙. Regarding Qitianle, the mode is indicated as 黃鐘宮 (meaning Huangzhongjun zhi Gong 黃鐘均之宮 respectively Zhenggong 正宮) which is not to be confused with the mode Huangzhonggong in the 28 modes of Yanyue (indicating Wuyi 無射 zhi Gong 無射均之宮).
